

WOODROW WILSON ONCE EDITOR OF UNI- VERSITY MAGAZINE.

Writer In Charlottesville Progress Tells of Time When President Turned Out "Copy."

In the session of the University of 1879-80 the University Magazine was published by the Charlottesville Chronicle, in a building just where the Daily progress is now published. For two of its three editors it had John S. Patton and Woodrow Wilson, both of them long, lean and brainy chaps, but neither having the appearance, nor performing at that time the deeds that would impress you that they would ever indent the world with any great depression. Particularly was this true of Wilson.

Being the printer of the Magazine, the writer became quite chummy with each and both of these gentlemen, who, when they left the University, passed off into marts of life as thousands of others do, "unnoticed, unhonored and unused."

Mr. Patton, who now occupies the position of librarian to the University, is still with us, and has been one of our most prominent and useful citizens, whom we should miss very much if we didn't have him. He has never sought any very distinguished preferment; has been actually forced into the position he has occupied. He is a man of studious nature, and beyond being the mayor of the city of Charlottesville, I have never heard of his desiring to mix in the politics of the people.

The other one, Woodrow Wilson, is the most prominent, and the most talked of man in the world today. His accession to this position was a matter of amazement to his acquaintances and friends of former days, and there is not a time when we can say, "I knew it!" We believe in him, of course. But we can't understand it. And it is a question if the other one of this couple of magazine editors wouldn't have made just as good a president. That is not saying anything about the third one of this trio, who is still plodding the streets of Charlottesville. Simple modesty restrains me.—Charlottesville Progress.

Backache

Miss Myrtle Cothrum,
of Russellville, Ala., says:
"For nearly a year, I suffered with terrible backache, pains in my limbs, and my head ached nearly all the time. Our family doctor treated me, but only gave me temporary relief. I was certainly in bad health. My school teacher advised me to

TAKE Cardui

The Woman's Tonic
I took two bottles, in all, and was cured. I shall always praise Cardui to sick and suffering women." If you suffer from pains peculiar to weak women, such as headache, backache, or other symptoms of womanly trouble, or if you merely need a tonic for that tired, nervous, worn-out feeling, try Cardui. Health here trace the history of their infection in a way which health officers say is typical of the manner in which hydrophobia is being spread.

Some six months ago, it appears, a stray dog appeared in the community where the patients live. He was suspected of having bitten several dogs and was later killed as mad. But as he had not bitten any human beings, no further attention was given the matter. Some weeks thereafter, a dog which had been exposed to the rabid animal developed symptoms of hydrophobia and was killed, but as he too had not bitten anyone, no apprehension was felt. In about a month, however, a pet cat became vicious and bit and scratched four children. Examination showed that the cat was suffering from rabies and the children who had been bitten were brought to the State laboratory.

Health officers think it certain that the infection was carried from the first dog to the other, and by him to the cat, which, in turn, bit the four children. Treatment is now progressing satisfactorily and no ill effects are expected, but the spread of the disease, in the judgment of health officers, illustrates the necessity of precautions against rabid animals. In every case, the State Board of Health advises, animals which have been exposed to others suffering from rabies and all animals exhibiting symptoms of unusual diseases should be kept chained until the nature of the disease shows itself.

Radford Normal Notes.

The Hampton Court Singers, under the auspices of the Alhambra Lyceum System, will give the second number of the regular Normal School Lyceum course on Tuesday, November 23. The Lyceum course for the present session is the strongest the school has yet offered. All students attend these courses.

Cabinets, suitable cooking utensils, stoves, etc., have been put in some of the rural schools of Montgomery county. In these schools the Radford Normal is giving courses in Household Arts. This co-operative work on the part of the rural schools and the Normal School is not only giving the members of the Senior class in that course valuable experience in dealing with real problems, but is proving very interesting to the students and satisfactory to the management of the rural schools.

The general Athletic Association is giving special attention to developing basket ball players at the present time. A number of new students are showing up as good material. Several inter-class games have been played; others are planned for the near future. A number of games with out of town schools are being scheduled. The next game with an out of town school will probably be with the Pulaski High School team. A game with that school was played last Saturday, resulting in a victory for the Normal School team.

Wednesday of this week was under a day of special activity for the Young Woman's Christian Association, so far as carrying on the business side of the work was concerned. Does from practically all the members were collected and the business policies for the future discussed. The Association is an unusually strong force in student life. Practically all members of the school belong to it. The Association is working just now to get every student who is a member of some church at home to unite with the local church for the time she will be at the Normal School.

At the State Teachers' Conference Prof. J. E. Avant will speak before the Department of Mathematics Teachers on "The Relative Values of Arithmetic," before the Department of Principals on "The Social Demand for Arithmetic," and before the Teachers' College Alumni on "The Need for Professionally Trained Supervisors." He is well qualified to discuss these subjects. In regard to the first two subjects he has, for some time, been engaged in an investigation to ascertain the Social Demand for arithmetic. When this investigation shall be concluded, it will probably reveal some very useful facts. As to the last named subject, Prof. Avant has had, himself, ten years as an active supervisor. In addition thereto he has taken the professional courses in Supervision and Administration given at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

Uncertain Heart Action Alarming

Mrs. W. O. Howell Says Tanlac Relieved Her of Palpitation.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 23.—Mrs. W. O. Howell, wife of the agent for the Louisville Carriage Company at the Seelbach Hotel, who lives at 619 South Jackson street, this city, is one of the most ardent believers in Tanlac, the peerless preparation, as is shown by a recent statement she made of the benefits she derived from it.

"I was weak and nervous and dizzy," she said, "any sudden noise made my heart beat so fast it frightened me. I had nervous headaches. Whenever I walked upstairs it left me almost exhausted.

"My stomach was weak and my food did not agree with me. If I ate anything solid it made me miserable. I was told that I had catarrh of the stomach, but the medicines I took did me no good until friends suggested Tanlac to me. I'm glad now that I took their advice.

"It was almost no time until I felt better, and now I can eat whatever I please. I owe it all to Tanlac. My nerves are in good shape again, and I no longer have palpitation of the heart. Tanlac is the only medicine that ever helped me. I can't say too much in praise of it."

Tanlac is now being sold in Big Stone Gap at the Mutual Drug Company, and at Norton by Norton Drug Company.

Appalachia Items

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Miller, who a year ago went to Eastern Virginia to live, are now back here. Their friends gladly welcome them.

Mrs. J. C. Brown and little granddaughter, of Bristol, left Thursday morning for home after a visit of several weeks to her daughter, Mrs. W. Everett.

Mrs. King, of Knoxville, Tenn., is visiting her son, Ned King.

O. L. Maddox was in West Virginia the past week, on a business trip.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. B. S. Grim left for a few days visit to her parents. From there she will go to Richmond to attend the State Teachers' Association to which she is a delegate.

Rev. Clark, of Elizabethton, Tenn., has been conducting revival services at the Methodist Church for the past three weeks. While the crowds have been small, lots of good has been done.

Rev. Livesay, of the First Christian Church, of Bristol, commenced revival services here Monday night at the Christian Church.

J. W. Gunter spent Tuesday in Bristol.
